Kansas Trails

A Resource on the Move

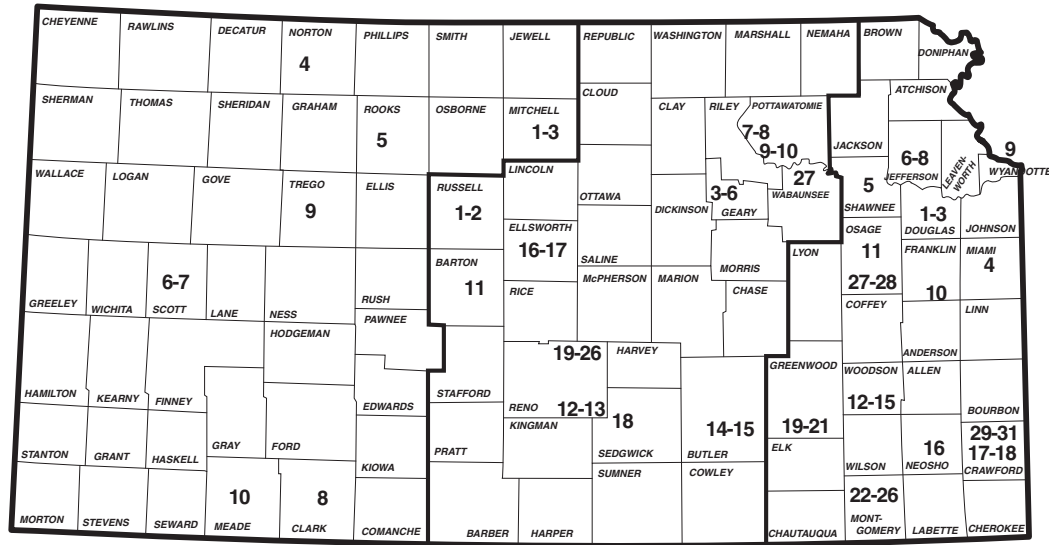

At one time, Kansas trails were an essential part of the state's pioneering economy. The Santa Fe, the Oregon, the Pony Express -- these are a few of the trails Kansas helped make famous. However, many trails, as well as railroad lines, have been abandoned in the 20th Century.

At the same time, demand has increased for places to hike, bicycle, ride horses, and just plain enjoy nature.

This shifting demand for access to the land has created a new interest in public trails. In response, the Kansas Department of Wildlife and Parks has put new emphasis on maintaining a statewide trails system at state parks and wildlife areas. This places renewed economic and environmental value on the Sunflower State's natural transportation corridors

Motor vehicles entering a state park are required to have a valid motor vehicle permit. No permit is required to walk or bicycle into any Kansas state park (except Sand Hills State Park). Per person use permits are required for Sand Hills State Park and Prairie Spirit Trail. Permits are not required to use trails on wildlife areas and state fishing lakes. Camping is not permitted on any department trails. Camping may be available in nearby campgrounds in state parks (fees required) or wildlife areas and state fishing lakes. The Kansas Department of Wildlife and Parks wishes to thank the many individuals and organizations throughout the state who have helped make these trails possible. Their dedication and hard work have enhanced trail opportunities for all Kansans.
